In the southwest corner of Hells Kitchen, just a few short blocks from Port Authority on 9th Avenue is the hidden gem, Dalton's Bar & Grill. This local Irish establishment features twenty seven 60" HD TV's, that dominate the long and narrow room, like that of a suburban sports bar with office workers stopping by for a pre - PATH drink. There's a mind-boggling selection of beer with alot of delicious micro brews. The menu is expansive and has all the standard Irish pub food presented nicely as well as some interesting interpretations on classic dishes with very generous portions. The burgers are perfection, every time. The beef burger with Gruyere and sautéed mushrooms with chips is a favorite with many. The side salad was not just a bowl of iceberg lettuce and tomatoes, but a full delicious fresh salad. A fantastic burger, clearly fresh and hand-made with at least 8oz of lean beef, served a perfect medium rare on a brioche.

This place has the best burgers, and I haven't even mentioned their wings yet!

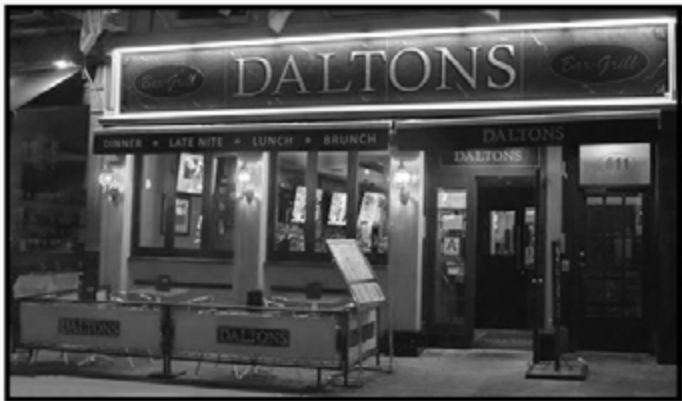

The chicken wings are perfectly breaded and fried, and deliver a soul-satisfying crunch with a clean, juicy taste, drenched in your choice of sauce, results in the perfect companion to any game and a cold beer. Daltons is also the perfect spot for simple breakfast dishes when you can't find anything around your hotel without line ups! They serve up a full Brunch menu on weekends. There is a range of stomach-filling goodies, from buttermilk pancakes to crab-cakes and complimentary Mimosa or Bloody Mary with your meal! Daltons is a winning combination of sports, beer, and grub for hungry happy-hour patrons that has become a neighborhood favorite in Hells Kitchen. The food is a notch above most of the sports bars in the area, but its the service that really stands out.

It's a sports fans dream they have just about every sports package you could imagine. Baseball, Football, Basketball, Hockey, Golf, Cricket, Soccer, you name it!

Everyone really makes you feel welcome, there are no strangers at Daltons, just friends you haven't met yet!

THE HEART OF HELL'S KITCHEN

Attracting Hell's Kitchen locals and tourists with its fun, dimly-lit, casual atmosphere Daltons is a friendly, well-executed, typical Irish pub that distinguishes itself from others with its wide variety of food and beer menu choices.
